Conference Speakers

Albert R. Bennett, representing the Wyoming State Lodge of Fraternal Order of Police, is a 24-year veteran of the Wyoming Division of Criminal Investigation and a five-year veteran of the Natrona County Sheriff's Office. As a graduate of Casper College, Mr. Bennett has experienced first hand the challenges in our local community that methamphetamine and other illegal drugs have created. Mr. Bennett has given over 122 lectures in Wyoming, Utah, and Colorado about the dangers associated with clandestine drug labs.

Scott Burns, Pursuant to his nomination by President George W. Bush, Scott was confirmed by the U.S. Senate as Deputy Director for State and Local Affairs in the White House Drug Policy Office in April, 2002. In addition to his role as principal adviser to ONDCP Director John P. Walters regarding federal, state and local law enforcement, Mr. Burns is also responsible for oversight of the $226 million High Intensity Drug Trafficking Area (HIDTA) program. Soon after his appointment, he reorganized the Office of State and Local Affairs, and assumed new leadership responsibilities for administration initiatives such as reducing prescription drug abuse, enhancing drug courts, tackling marijuana and methamphetamine production on public lands, and crafting other national strategies to disrupt the market for drugs such as methamphetamine, marijuana, cocaine and heroin. Most recently, Mr. Burns was appointed by the White House to serve as the United States' representative to the World Anti-Doping Agency (WADA), an international organization charged with eliminating doping and drug use in sport. Mr. Burns represents the 40-nation Americas region on WADA's governing Foundation Board, and also chairs WADA's Ethics and Education Committee, which aims to educate young athletes worldwide on the health and ethical dangers of drug use. He received his J. D. from California Western School of Law.

Wilson Compton, M.D., M.P.E. Dr. Compton is a graduate of Washington University School of Medicine, specializing in Psychiatric Epidemiology. In addition to his extensive administrative experience as Director of many medical and academic programs, Dr. Compton is a skilled researcher in fields specializing in HIV, Schedules for Clinical Assessment in Neuropsychiatry (SCAN), and Mental Disorders, Alcohol- and Drug-Related Problems.

Thomas H. Coyne MSW, is the founder and director of National Training Services (NTS), an organization providing training and technical assistance regarding the assessment and treatment of substance abuse and the evaluation and outcomes monitoring of its treatment. He is the former Associate Director of Technology Transfer at the Treatment Research Institute where he worked very closely with Dr. A. Thomas McLellan and the developers of the Addiction Severity Index (ASI). Prior to this he was the director of training for DeltaMetrics, a clinical information systems and outcomes monitoring firm located in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. He remains one of their chief consultants and trainers who continues to manage ASI and other training related activities for them. Dr. A. Thomas McLellan the developer of the ASI regards him as "the best trainer in the country on the correct administration and application of the Addiction Severity Index."

Staff Sergeant (SSgt) Dawn M. Gay is an Intelligence Analyst, National Guard Counter Drug Program assigned to the Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA), Denver Field Division, Cheyenne Resident Office in Cheyenne, Wyoming. SSgt Gay has been assigned to the Drug Enforcement Administration, Cheyenne Resident Office since June 3, 2002. During this time she has worked primarily as an intelligence analyst providing case support to agents from DEA and other state and federal law enforcement agencies.

Thomas J. Gorman graduated from San Jose State University and began his law enforcement career in 1968 when he went to work for the California Bureau of Narcotic Enforcement (BNE). Since that time, he has served in many capacities including undercover agent and narcotic investigator. He has made more than 1,000 undercover purchases of all types of illicit drugs and has been wounded twice. During his tenure with BNE, he served as program manager for the Advanced Training Center in Sacramento as well as commanded the Sacramento County Heroin Impact Program, the department's Special Investigations/Organized Crime Unit and the Placer Task Force.

C. West Huddleston, III. With six years of national leadership experience; nine years of project development and operational experience with eight years and 18,000 documented hours of offender specific, substance abuse and mental health counseling experience, it is no wonder that West Huddleston is now the Director for the National Drug Court Institute and has been since 1998. As Director, he is responsible for the creation, nationwide development, and daily operations of the National Drug Court Institute (NDCI). The NDCI contracts with the Office of National Drug Control Policy (ONDCP) and many other federal and national organizations to provide research and other scholastic dissemination and attend and monitor over eighty court-specific training and technical assistance events annually, throughout the nation and abroad.

Mona M. Johnson M.A., C.P.P., C.D.P. As a Program Supervisor for the Office of Superintendent of Public Instruction in Olympia, Washington, Mona manages state and federal grant programs related to prevention/intervention services, safe and drug free schools, and supportive learning environments. She provides leadership and technical assistance to 296 Local Education Associations in nine Educational Service Districts and related consortia. With many years in the student assistance profession prior to joining OSPI, Mona continues to work as a consultant providing training in the areas of professional wellness, resilience and childhood trauma, and substance abuse and violence prevention, at the local, state and national levels.

Glen R. Lambert, Executive Director of Odyssey House in Salt Lake City, Assistant Clinical Professor at the University of Utah Grad School of Social Work, and private practice. Has lectured extensively both nationally and internationally.

Penny Norton is the founder and CEO for FACE. FACE promotes awareness, provides resources, training and advocates for community action to ensure sensible alcohol policies and practices. Ms. Norton has established a national speaking reputation by communicating in a frank manner about promising policy approaches aimed at changing community environments that contribute to alcohol problems. Penny has been featured in a number of professional journals and is the author of two books on community organizing for the reduction of alcohol problems.

Cardwell Nuckols, MA, PhD has been described as "one of the most influential clinical trainers in America." He is an internationally recognized expert in such areas as behavioral medicine and addictions treatment, Cardwell C. Nuckols, MA, Ph.D. has been a clinical and developmental consultant for over thirty years. In 1979 he formed his first company, Cardwell C. Nuckols and Associates LLC, a national and international training and consulting organization. Over the years, he has served the healthcare field in multiple capacities as a clinician, supervisor, program director and hospital administrator. Dr. Nuckols has led numerous corporate start-up and reengineering projects including involvement in the development of three publicly traded companies. One of these corporations is helping to bring to market new medications to help those suffering from the devastation of AIDS. For his entrepreneurial efforts, Dunn and Bradstreet nominated Dr. Nuckols to receive placement in the 2004 National Business Registry. Dr. Nuckols' passion and mission is to assist in the translation of emerging scientific research into information and technique helpful to those who do the important work of helping alcoholics, addicts and those suffering from co-occurring disorders find their personal road to recovery. To this end, Dr. Nuckols thanks you for allowing him the opportunity to be with you today.

Scott E. Ortiz is a Casper native who obtained his Juris Doctorate from the University of Wyoming in 1988. He is a shareholder in the Casper law firm of Williams, Porter, Day, & Neville, PC. His trial practice specializes in labor and employment law, federal discrimination and civil rights claims, and professional negligence cases. In addition to his jury trial practice, he has successfully defended management rights in excess of fifty labor arbitrations and due process hearings. Mr. Ortiz represents private and governmental companies on numerous employment-related issues and is a frequent speaker for topics on state and federal employment law, sexual harassment, and others. He is a member of the Natrona County Bar Association, Wyoming, Nebraska, and Colorado State Bar Associations.
